Excerpt: .to compare the direct measurements of the heat output with the values calculated from the gaseous metabolism. For this particular experiment, therefore, the values obtained by indirect calorimetry are also recorded, although it should again be emphasized that the values for the indirect heat are not given for the specific purpose of noting the increment above the basal value but simply to obtain the general trend of the metabolism from period to period for comparison with the direct measurements of the heat production. Aside from the first period, in which the computed heat is 16 calories higher than the determined, all the values found by direct calorimetry are higher than those computed. The average for the entire experiment shows a discrepancy between the values obtained by the two methods of approximately 6 per cent. While this discrepancy appears very large in the light of...
